NCRE Commits to Action to Maintain the CRC as the Highest Level of Credentialing

The National Council on Rehabilitation Education (NCRE) released a communication to its membership in support of the Certified Rehabilitation Counselor (CRC) certification as the highest level of credentialing for rehabilitation counselors.

As stated in the announcement, "NCRE requests its members commit to action maintaining the CRC as the highest level of credentialing for rehabilitation counselors, to establish the distinctive identity and knowledge base of rehabilitation counselors, and to ensure the provision of quality services to people with disabilities." Click here to read the full announcement.

Last week, CRCC leadership was in attendance at the NCRE Annual National Rehabilitation Educators Conference. We learned first-hand how NCRE and its members stand behind the profession's credential, which demonstrates the exceptional experience and knowledge base of rehabilitation counselors. We greatly thank the NCRE Board of Directors for their leadership. We also applaud both NCRE and their members for supporting the CRC as the highest marker of professional identity as a rehabilitation counselor!

Steven L. West, Ph.D., CRC
CRCC President

THE NATIONAL COUNCIL ON REHABILITATION EDUCATION (NCRE)

NCRE is the premier professional organization for educators dedicated to quality services for persons with disabilities through education and research. NCRE advocates up-to-date education and training and the maintenance of professional standards in the field of rehabilitation. Our membership is diverse and composed of Institutional Programs, Educators, Counselors, Trainers, Practitioners, Researchers, Students, and other professionals concerned with the preparation and maintenance of professional standards for individuals who support persons with disabilities. Learn more here https://ncre.org/ and here https://ncre.org/membership-eligibility/.